New Source of Food-Bread From the Original Elements-The Process of Nature Dispensed With.

A Paris correspondent of the New York Graphic tells a marvellous and fishlike story of a wonderful food discovery made by M. Guerette, professor of chemics in the University of Lyons. We quote the portions of his letter which profess to explain the pretended discovery.

It seems that the idea occurred to the It seems that the idea occurred to the learned scientist twenty years ago, that he might experiment with animal and vegetable food so far as to discover the primordial elements to sustain and foster life. He argued that as man is sustained by the flesh of animals and by vegetables, might be possible to resolve these arti-les of diet into their elements, discover cles of diet into their elements, discover the sources from which they drew their lite, and by judicious combination of their most nutritious qualities and the throwing out of that which was useless and harmful, produce an artificial species of food which would supply every need of the race. He sought what Huxley would supply a supply supply the preparatory of the and it is and it is and it is and it. whether it is a draft of the opinion he exlaimed and admitted by a number of his chaimed and admitted by a number of his learned countrymen that he has found it. It has been, as I said the work of twenty years to perfect the discovery, but two thousand years would not have been wasted had they been successfully applied to the same purpose.

There has been no public exhibition we cannot commend the use made of this inscovery by those into whose hands the manuscript fell. The papers were private; and no one but Judge H. had a right to either know or divulge their contents. But the fact having been made public, even by this wrongful disregard, and express only wonder that the same idea of tracing the food principle to its i a sacred privacy, the fact disclosed—if idea of tracing the food principle to its ing any other visads that come well recommended. The food is made of eartheven, it is said, of refuse matter. It contains in exact proportions the four prima-ry elements necessary for nutrition. Pro ry elements necessary for intuition. For pared with skill and care, it not only has rejected all that does not assist life, but it is said to be spiced and performed in n such a manner as to realize our dreams of the ambrosis of the gods. Smell and igestion is rendered a pleasure. No stale ent of cookery lingers about it; it has he kitchen. Those who have eaten itself.

A BRIEF Albany dispatch indicates that a liquor law providing for civil damsges, similar to the Ohio and West Virginia sm, they go still farther, and say that M. Guerett's discovery will do more to ban-ish alcoholism and other perverted tastes, and restore the system to its normal con-and restore the system to its normal con-dition of healthy appetites and sound di-gestion than all the discoveries of all the medical men who have ever lived. With others, I laughed heartily at the idea when it was first broached, but a see ond and more sober thought has made me lend a readier ear to what has been told ne. I remembered the habits of the clay esters of North Carolina and the tribe esters of North Carolina and the tribes along the Amszon river, who eat a soft, highly-scented clay that is found upon its banks, and are seemingly as well grown and as strong as those who live on flesh and fruit. If this could be done by barbrinns, I reasoned, why should not civilized men be able to derive their food from the same source? The animal is fed by programme.

To supply a want full for a real genuine good article of Boap at a reasonable price, the undersigned is now manufacturing such an article, as all testify who have seen and used The Favorite Soap, Mannfactured by B. HRID, Wheeling, W. Va.

I claim that it cannot be sacelled, is in purity and quality; ad, in economy, because it is firm and hard as soon as made and will not shrink when exposed to the atmosphere, like most coape do. It will therefore wash half as much more as the soaps now in market at the same price; 3d, For perfection in washing. You must wash with a pure, clean coap, or you cannot have clean, white clothes. Use the Forestie Soap and you will have no more trouble getting your clothes white and faultiess, and quarantee that it will not injure the skin or the most delicate labrics. 4th, I claim for it an advantage over all
